THE COLORED VOTES.

Since the colored convention at Macon friends of the syndicate here are giving out reports that the colored voters of Georgia are soliditied in support of the new movement, and they offer this as the omen of their success to the administration. The history of colored Georgia politicians in Washington is sad enough. Pledger went home dejected with the fragments of a dozen broken promises. special Dispatch to The Constitution.

In the house of commons to-day Mr. Smith postponed his motion on the land question pending the government's proposals. No conditions were attached to his released. conditions were attached to his release except those attached to his previous liberation. Mr. Gladstone announced that the charge of treasonable practice against Parnell would be

Mr. Forster stated the reasons of his withdrawal from the office of chief secretary for Ireland. He said that in view of the great the affairs difficulty experienced in the affairs of Ireland, he would have preferred, so far as he personally was concerned, to say nothing. He confirmed the report that there was a difference between himself and the rest of the cabinet in regard to the release of the suspects, which release he condemned. the suspects, which release he condemned. He said that he could not agree to release the suspects unless he got from them a public undertaking to case opposing the execution of the law. As he could not obtain that he could not remain in office. He would have released the suspects if Ireland had been quieter, if the government had full powers, but he could not agree to an unconditional surrender. He admitted that the condition of Ireland was better than in January but it was still so better than in January, but it was still so bad that he wanted the government to let the rules of procedure wait until a fresh act the rules of procedure wait until a fresh act securing punishment for outrages had been passed. The coercion act he said, had broken up the league or put it under pethocats, and rents were being paid, but he feared that an unconditional release would undo all the good effects of the act. Mr. Forster, in justifying the arrest of Mr. Parnell, said that Parnell, if he had been allowed, would have become the uncrowned king of Ireland. Mr. Forster declared that the proceedings of the imprisoned members had been far more dangerous than individual incitements to outrage.

Mr. Gladstane, replying to a question by Si Henry Drummond Wolff, Couser stive, said it had been intimated to him that the 'no rent' manifesto would be withdrawn. Messrs. What the party had to gain by such dilatory tactics I cannot see. The bill is bound to pass, and the debate has ing that his statements and opinions concerning whisky legislation had been greatly exaggerated and misrepresented. Mr. Voorhees said the aspersions upon his own character were to the effect that his vete could be controlled by one or more persons in Washington, but in view of the disclaimers read by Mr. Beck, which he regarded as a succinct exoneration of himself, he would leave the disposition of the resolution to the pleasure of the senate. After further discussion, Mr. Windom withdrew his amendment, with a notice that he would renew it to-moring that his statements and opinions concern grown to the proportions of an enormous bore. Only three or four speeches since it began have held anything like attention, and now when a member dives into his desk for a when a member dives into his desk for a pound or two of manuscript on the hackneyed theme there is a general rush for the cloak rooms and restaurants. When Mr. Randall will consent to have the debate end is not definitely settled. He may stave it off into next week, but the democrats can gain nothing by dragging out the session. They had better be for getting through and going home to prepare for next fall's work. It is openly proclaimed in Washington that they claim the next house. To make their claim good will require work of the liveliest kind. Nothing else this week but long, arid arguments on the tariff. The bill to establish the, commission was rather claimed by the democrats, or some of their leaders in the senate. It is about the same thing as the with a notice that he would renew it to-mor row on an independent proposition, and t e resolution was then postponed indefinitely It is about the same thing Eaton bill of 1880.4 The ex-senator has been in Washington all winter working for its pas-

ARMY EXTRAVAGANCE.

In the course of the discussion in the senate on the question of printing the report of the secretary of war, showing how so much money was used for traveling purposes in the army, Senator Plumb said this thing of transporting army officers from one place to anporting army officers from one place to another that they might visit their families or other that they might visit their lamines or sweethearts had become an outrage and should be stopped. He said it was very nice for an officer to have an order to vist a place he wanted to visit, because the order pro-vided for all his expenses. There was no nevided for all his expenses. There was no necessity for so many officers here in Washington. He thought when the amounts were allowed to departments by congress for such expenses, they ought to be subject to congressional investigation.

BELLAMY'S.

THE CELEBRATED GEORGIA PLAN TATION SO NAMED.

Sixteen Thousand-Acre Farm with Six Ti Under Cultivation—Over One Thousand N gross, with Churches, Schools, Dance Houses and Separate Cottages, Etc.

From the Quitman Free Press. We were so fortunate as to make one of select party which on Sunday last assembled at the beautiful country home of Major B. W. Bellamy, sixteen miles southwest of Quitman. His house is situated in the center of a plantation of ten thousand acres, upon a beautiful rising ground, surrounded by grand old oaks and cedars, and was built in the olden time. This is evidenced by the wide halls, the spacious rooms, the broad piazzas and the luxuriant furniture, which shows an entire disregard for expense, and tells a tale of wealth' refinement and luxury.

THE CELEBRATED BELLAMY PLAGE. contains about ten thousand acres in a body and is as fine cotton and corn land as can b found in Georgia or Florida. About six thousand acres are in cultivation, and a view of these broad fields from the major's front piazza is truly grand.

Over one thousand negroes live and mov-and eat their rations on the plantation. The have their churches, their dance houses and every other convenience necessary for their temporal and spiritual welfare and amuse-ment. Their cottages are not only comforta-ble, but many of them are well arranged and neat. Each dwelling has its garden, fruit orchard and potato patch attached and looks homelike and cosy.

A WONDERFUL TALENT.

In the control and management of this family of a thousand souls Major Bellamy who is comparatively a young man, displays a talent and tact which is truly wonderful He knows the names of all his working hands, and as a rule remembers the names of the women and children. He never meets any of his tenants without a pleasant word or an inquiry after their crops, and in conse-quence is idolized by them all. He encour-ages their schools and helps to pay their preachers. He gives them good advice and requires them to comply strictly with all con-tracts. He never deceives them in anything, and in consequence has their confidence. Many of them are his old slaves and are virtually as fully controlled as in former days.

RIGHT HUNDRED BALES OF COTTON are raised upon the plantation. This is hauled to the large steam gin near the major's rest to the large steam gin near the major's rest-dence, where it is ginned, packed and weigh-ed. When sold the major deducts his rent and advances, and pays balance to the tenant. He never has any trouble, for the reason that he rents for so much cotton and corn and not for a part of the crop. This is without doubt the largest farm and the greatest num-ber of negroes in a body, under the control of one man, in Georgia or Florida, and Major Bellamy is the only man we ever knew who Bellamy is the only man we ever knew who could manage such a machine.

We had been invited to dine, and at 2 o'clock we met the dinner and the guests.

The repast was served in the old style by the major's old family servants, once his slaves, and was sumptuous and elegant. The old fashioned chicken pic, baked in a ten gallon vessel, and the huge round of baked beef re minded us of ante bellum times.

The Madison Ghost. rom the Valdosta Times. Our sister town across the state line has Our sister fown across the state line has been enjoying a first-class sensation. Some days ago a lady, the wife of a prominent man in Madison, reported that she had seen a genuine ghost in the cemetery, which is located just out of town near a swamp. She saw it—she knew she did—and it was cressed like a woman. It beek one on She woman. It beckoned to her, and so on. She was so greatly in earnest about the matter that five young men went out to see for them-selves. It was not long before four of them appeared on the streets and affirmed that they saw the ghost. There was no question about it! They saw it and could show it to anyone who would go out with them. A crowd of about a dozen young men and boys then joined the four and went. Sure enough, when they got within about a hundred yards of the place a ghost, attired in white raiments rose and fled to the swamp The panic stricken crowd returned to the town and raised the whole neighborhood. One of them swore that he saw it rise and light in a tree. The merchants all closed their stores, the lawyers left their offices, the doctors aban-doned their patients, the blacksmith left his forge, the shoemaker de-serted his bench, and all went to the cemetery, leaving the women and chil-dren to the mercies of—their fears. About dren to the mercies of—their fears. About twenty were mounted on horses with the avowed determination of outrunning the ghost to the swamp. The editor of the Recorder, who, as we learn, was a sort of a leader of the mob, concelved the idea of cutting off the retreat of the apparition and accordingly dispatched four or five men who were noted for their coolness, and courses around. for their coolness and courage around.

The husband says that Mrs. Clarke had taken up with her cousin (by marriage) and lived with him for a year past, and that the little babe is his child. That past, and that the little babe is his child. There even after her acting in this faithless manner his love was so strong for her that he would carry her all the money he made, and after she had saved up some two hundred dollars, the "lover" and truant wife planned their escape to Florida, and proposed to make it at the silly husband's expense by taking his horses and weepon. They were over ing his horses and wagon. They were over taken in Polk county, near the Sumter line, on Sunday, and brought to a halt by the persuative influence of a loaded rifle. The oung husband returned on Monday as be restated, with the woman and children, and their team, but a mysterious uncertainty as to the fate or whearer bouts of the daring robber, lurks in the air. The outraged hus-band boldly stated here, at one time, that the culprit was left where he would never

That Large Cat Fish.

That Large Cat Fish.
From the Sandersville, Ga., Herald.
Well, I saw in your paper the other day that my friend Joe M., had caught a 35 th cat fish. Well, I thought then it was a big fish taie, for I never saw a cat fish that would weigh that much in my born days, and I was born and raised on the banks of the Flint river. If it weighed that much really, I just know it was a species of whale. Another know it was a species of whale. Another thing made me disbelieve it was, I just know that a man who had recently been at death's door as long as Joe, couldn't pull out that big a cat fish, for they do pull mightily (the little ones do). Another thing made me have my doubts. I never heard Joe say he caught it for if he had told me so, I'd have believed it if he had said it weighed 70 pounds. But I heard in town from a man who hought a hind quarter of that ichthyawho bought a hind quarter of that ichthyological specimen of a cat fish that it was caught by a young lady, but that the hook, line, pole and bait was actually Joe's. But the Savannah papers said that "Joe caught it and had no help." Well, I want to be exactly understood on this thing, and that is this I believe you are all benest in what you this, I believe you are all honest in what you have said about it, but there is certainly one of three things and you couldn't make me be lieve anything else if a preacher was to make an affidavit to the fact: That the scales vot weighed it on belonged to some of those mer chants that sell us country folks meat, or it wasn't no cat fish, or, if it really was a cat fish, that he had swallowed one of Jess. Rob son's mill rocks. I sorter believe the last is true, for Jess. asked me Saturday if I would Inspecting the Turtle. From the Franklin, Ga., News.

Two gentlemen went out in a boat the other day to investigate a fish basket. Returning, they discovered on the bank of the river what they took for a huge turtle. Steering as near the bank as possible, and very stealthily, one of our friends took up a box, which happened to be in the boat, and, reaching forward, clapped it down over the turtle, when in an instant the scene changes; the boat has shot out into the river ten or more feet from the bank, and our fisherman is, left standing up. bank, and our fisherman is left standing up to his waist in water. When he came out an inspected that turtle and found it but an empty shell, he felt sad

Cabbages, Collards and Corn Cribs. Yesterday afternoon we were told that Mr. D. G. His cabbage measures 2 feet 10 inches across, and his collards 3 feet and 11 inches. The cabbage are all well headed. He has, also, a large crib of corn that was gathered last year, and a smoke house that contains one the ounds of home raised hams and middlings. Our informant took dinner with Mr. and says that there was on the table a pie made of whortleberries of this year's growth.

THE WORLD'S TIMBER SUPPLY.

Blow Apparently Incohamstills Forests Have Been Cut, and West Still Remains.

From the New York Commercial Buildelin.

The substitution of iron for wood in may branches of manufacture, more especially in the case of iron vessels and sleepers for railroads, has by no means curtailed the world's demand for timber. The multifarious uses a conting on the state of the commercial builded in the question, is the wood supply sufficient for prospective requirements? The United States and Canada, as is well known, have been the greatest shippers of American lumber of late years, but time was when as many as 900 cargoes of timber were annually loaded at Mennel for Great Britain alone. Not only is the demand increasing, but what is the most serious feature of the situation, forests are rapidly disappearing, and thus far no efficiency of the structure of the situation. Forests there were brought up by English merchants and contractors, and now these countries have yearly to renew them. Sweden and Norway were one time regarded as inchansithle sources of supply. All the great forests there were brought up by English merchants and contractors, and now these countries have partly to draw their supplies from further north, and import their oak from Poland. Northern Russia, which was at one time an innuense forest all the way from the Baltic to the Ural mountains, has increased its cuttings so rapidly that St. Petersburg even has to the Ural mountains, has increased its cuttings so rapidly that St. Petersburg even has to the Ural mountains, has increased its cuttings so rapidly that St. Petersburg even has to the Ural mountains, has increased its cuttings so rapidly that St. Petersburg even has to the Ural mountains, has increased its cuttings so rapidly that St. Petersburg even has to the Ural mountains, has increased its cuttings so rapidly that St. Petersburg even has to the Ural mountains, has increased its cuttings so rapidly that St. Petersburg even has to the Ural mountains, has increased its cu

000,000 acres; but the difficult nature of the passes in the Alps and Appenines render it impossible to work them to commercial advantage. Spain has some 8,500,000 acres of forests, but the woodman is hampered here also by the nature of the ground. Portugal, with a good seaboard, has no difficulty in getting rid of the small extent of forest land that now remains—that is to say, not more than 1,000,000 acres. Turkey has extensive forests in Roumelia, near Constantinople, and also in various parts of its Asiatic possessions; but the population has been continues at a greater rate than production there is no likelihood of a disturbance of the equilibrium between the different iron producing sections. But let a change come; let stocks accumulate and prices go down, and we should soon witness the survival of the

France figures for about 22,000,000 acres of forest. In Great Britain the supply of home wood is simply nil; trees are there chiefly for ornament; while in Ireland impoverished landlords have ruthlessly cut down woods that has served very important meteorological purposes.

may be observed that the cost of tapping the immense forests of Central Africa and America would at once cause a revolution in the present condition of the timber trade.

While the supply of lumber in the United States is fully equal to present demands, it is difficult to foresee what may be the increased requirements, domestic and foreign, in the early future. It is very certain that due provision is not made for replanting, and while some states have shown commendable care and energy in that respect, others have been singularly negligent. What, in the course of a few years, will become of the lumber trade of Pensacola, Mobile, and other southern ports, with the present rate of clearing?

PITTS'S CARMINATIVE,

In Canada, we observe, the subject is beginning to attract the attention it deserves, and in face of the increasing shipments from St. John, Miramichi, Quebec, and other ports, there is no doubt that even there the supply in the course of brief time may have to be brought from longer distances. The cargoes in 1881 from St. John, N. B., were 303, and the superficial feet of deals 210,281,730, besi es 5,152 tons of birch and 1,549 of pine. In 172 only 138,791,000 feet were shipped. From Miramichi 219 vessels were sent out last year with 128,311,000 feet of deals, 1,034 tons of birch, 1,009 tons of pine, and 3,228,000 pieces of paling. The total shipment of deals from Canadian ports in 1881 were 400,135,905 superficial feet—a decrease, however, from 1880, when 431,055,574 feet were shipped. Our most important source of supply, the great northwest, it is well known, is exposed to improvident methods and reckless waste; and these saust ere long lead to a serious depletion of the forests (as they have already led to important climatic changes not always favorable in a sanitary aspect), unless some intelligent system is generally adopted, not only for arresting further waste, but encouraging replanting. Nature is ever responsive to man's wants, but there is a point at which nature will resent man's wastefulness and neglect. FOR INFANTS AND CHILDREN. Olic, CHOLERA INFANTUM, DIARRHŒA, Dysentery, or any morbid state of the Alimen tary Canal, cures the child. A relief to the aching heart of the over texed mother. For adults—cures nausea and vomiting. Peculi r to females—cures painful menstration, coughs colds, enolera morbus and others derangements of the stomach and bowels. Hundreds can testify to its wonderful virtues. Retail price 25 cents. At wholesale by Lamar, Renkin & Lamar, Atlanta, Ga., and for sale by all druggists.

The Southern Iron Interest.

Correspondence of Bradstreet's.

The rapid development of iron-making in the south is a significant thing in the iron trade of the north and west. Hitherto the scurces of supply of the large foundries, mills and manufactories using iron in Ohio, Michigan, Indiana, Illinois and farther west have been mainly at Hanging Rock, Central Ohio and Mahoning valley, Pennsylvania, New York and the Lake Superior region. Until within a year or two seuthern iron (except the higher grades used for car-wheels) has played a small figure in this territory. Now it is used in large quantities, and in two years more, if existing conditions remain unchanged, Tennessee, Alabama and Virginsa will be the controlling influence in western trade. o-wit:

changed, Tennessee, Alabama and Virginsa will be the controlling influence in western trade.

This will appear to most people, at first glance, as a wild statement. But let us see. Leaving charcoal iron out of the calculation, Ohio made, in 1881, 644,000 tons of pig metal. Tennessee and Alabama together in this period made about 120,000. This seems a wide disparity. But a large share of the Ohio iron was used by mills owning the furnaces which made it, and was never put upon the market. The southern iron, being without a local market, nearly all came north and was distributed through the channels of trade.

Now, in Ohio the increase in production during the past three years has been a little over fifty per cent. In the southern states named it has been 140 per cent. Next year it is probable that Ohio will but slightly increase her output of iron, while Alabama and Tennessee will double theirs. An experienced furnace manager from Alabama gives the following as his estimate of the output of the leading southern coke furnaces in the year ending the spring of 1883:

THERE is an insidious ingenuity about Colonel Farrow's letter which makes it excellent reading, even though he uses innuendo; that meanest of rhetorical figures. No one will be deceived by his apparent frankness. Colonel Farrow is too well known for that. It is a case of "Codlin's the friend, not Short," with the coalition colonels for Codlin and Mr Stephens as Little Nell.

BOTH sides in the senate have declared what we did yesterday, a belief in Senator Voorbees's honesty and integrity. Senator Windom, however, while foremost in his expressions of regard for Mr. Voorhees, said mous sum of money had been raised for lobif properly carried out, will produce great cabinet from the south.

OPELIKA. Alabama, is the present scene of much disturbance. Faction feeling is at its height. It culminated on Thursday by the shooting of two policemen. The bitter feeling in the town has been brewing since last month when the municipal election was declared illegal. The result of all this is two sets of officers, each claiming jurisdiction and each ready to fight for it. The fighting is disgraceful. Why should not the matter be submitted to arbitration rather than the curse of bloodshed.

INGERSOLL, that unsavory professional athe ist, made an unwonted scene in court yesterand Republican National Committee Secretapledged himself for Dorsey's appearance. Now he is forced to admit that it is beyond will now be sought for as any other vulgar the star route trial yesterday was interesting.

CONSIDERABLE Georgia business was transacted in the house last Monday. Mr. Buchanan introduced a bill for the relief of William Mahaffy, and a bill to establish a post-route from Mountain Hill to Hargett, in Harris county. Mr. Cook presented the petitions of citizens of Irwin and Montgomery countie in favor of an appropriation for educational purposes, and Mr. Turner a like petition ed by W. M. Adams and 354 other citizens of Miller county. On the resolution to make the bill to extend the expiring national bank charters a special order for the 9th instant, Mr. Speer voted in the affirmative and Messrs. Blount, Buchanan, Clements, Cook, Hammond and Turner in the negative. Messrs. Black and Stepens did not vote.

THE CONSTITUTION AND MR. STEPHENS. The leader of THE CONSTITUTION on yester day on Mr. Stephens and his possible candidacy, has been the subject of so much special comment, that we desire to reiterate and amplify certain parts of it.

Let us first consider the necessity of the daclaration therein made. The coalitionists in this state openly declare that Mr. Stephens is their candidate. It has been published in their organs that he is in sympathy with their movement. They openly declare that it is their purpose to indorse him in their June Under these circumstances we felt meeting. it to be our duty to state the situation clearly -no less for the benefit of Mr. Stephens than the people of Georgia.

As to the correctness of our position there can be no doubt. While THE CONSTITU-TION claims to be independent of any clique, ring, or faction, it is a democratic newspaper. It believes in the purposes, the mission and the usefulness of the democratic party. Whenever that party is threatened we shall be found confronting its enemies, whether they be great or small. Now, what is the situation at present? Here is a coalition of men openly pledged to the destruction of the dem

The issue is squarely joined. Malcontents who have left the party ranks join hands with the ancient enemies of the party, and declare that their union is based upon common enmity to the democracy, and that their purpose is to destroy it. The so-called independent leaders assert that the democratic party has outlived its usefulness, and the republican leaders reply that "they will bring 80,000 republican votes" to assist in its overthrow. Here the gauntlet is thrown down sks for war and wants no compromise. The | traced the causes that led to the ass democracy should certainly not shrink from of President Carfield. We certainly shall not do so.

There is only one thing that must be understood. There can be no reconciliation or compromise. The purposes, the methods, the obects and the motives of the two parties are opposite and apart. There are two distinct organizations and two definite platforms. It is no longer organized democrats against independents democrats, or Norwood democrats against Colquitt democrats. It is one party pitted against another party that is pledged to its overthrow. It might as well have been said thirty years ago that a great man might have "harmonized" the people by accepting the nomination of both the whig and the democratic nominations as to unite Georgians by taking the nomination of the two parties of the present. The democracy perfectly understands the situation and is able to take care of itself. In saying this we can mean no possible disrespect to Mr. Stephens. Indeed, we should desire to speak mpersonally, were it not that his distinguished character forbids us disregarding him. We have no candiate of our own. We urge no man's claim, for we have no choice. We shall content ourselves with supporting the nominee of the democratic convention, and opposing the man who runs against him. In has forced the reopening of the old fight between the democracy and its enemies, we can do no less than insist that each party shall choose its own candidate, and put him upon nerve to demand this much, and be satisfied tates to rally its constituents upon so plain

A respected contemporary mentions that little Billy Chandler is New England's representative in the cabinet. As a matter of fact. Chandler represents his own greed and the deliberate policy of the president who appointed him; but, at the same time there are certain picturesque relations existing between such men and the sections from which they come that are not to be lost sight of. The contemporary whose suggestion is quoted above evidently recognizes these relations and appreciates their significance. For instance, were Mr. Billy Chandler a southern man, we can place our fingers upon half a dozen vigorous organs of northern public opinion that would take pleasure in commenting freely upon the relations between Mr. Billy Chandler's odorous national reputation and that it had come to his knowledge that an enor- his sectional environment, and in discussing these for the purpose of throwing light upon bying rurposes at Washington, and he is to political progress and development in our bring in a resolution of investigation, which, native land, provided he had gone into the

As matters stand, Mr. Billy Chandler is not only the representative of some very curious phases of the political progress of New England, but, to a certain extent, is also the fit and entrenched itself. Moreover, with true New England progress it has gone much fureven a crime-to rob, and he, and steal; England republican code, it is neither a sin cuit, whenever he is assigned to that duty by day at Washington, when he was taunted nor a crime to rob, and lie, and steal, for the the circuit judge senior in office, and two or with the non appearance of Star Route Thief | benefit of the republican party. "Bob" had told the court that he is permeative and powerful, this progressive the bill provides that the panel of republican party in all parts of the country; his power to make his client appear. Dorsey fand we find the men who steal money from the government make a virtue of their thief. Take it all in all the whole result of knavery if only they have been patriotic enough to divide the spoils with the republican party. They not only confidently offer themselves for appointment to office, but they parade up and down as leaders of the republican party, and are recognized as such by all whose recognition is worth anything. Every episode and every event in Mr. Billy handler's history goes to show that he has been guided and inspired by this politicomoral code of New England, and his appointment to a cabinet position is an evidence that the immoral qualities which have made him notorious are valued by the president. It will be remembered that Mr. Billy Chandler is, of all men, chiefly responsible for the presidential steal. The confessions of Samuel B. McLin show, beyond all question, that the decision of the Florida returning board was secured by means of bribery and corruption, and since that time Mr. Billy Chandler has been regarded as a hero in New England where the worst crime is regarded as a virtue if it be committed in the interest of the republican party. The bribery of Dorsey, the corruption of Bill Chandler, the robbery of Robeson and the lax notions of morality which prevail among republicans all go to show that the New England idea of patriot ism is gradually carrying the country to the dogs. It is true that many New England re publicans are supposed to be engaged in making the literature of civil service reform, but few of these protest against the spirit and purpose of the administration as shadowed forth n its appointments, and none of them appear to be interested in impressing the public with the idea that Robber Robeson is not a typical republican. The difficulty is with the New a politician is a thief or an honest man so long as he is a republican. It is to be observed also that New England appears to be perfectly well satisfied with a president, the chief boast of whose friends is that he is a politician. That the boast is am ply justified no one who has kept an eye on Mr. Arthur's movements can doubt. He has not only forgotten the accident that made him president, but has forgotten that even an accidental president cannot afford to be the president of a party, much less of a party faction. In South Carolina and Alabama h is stirring up strife by means of perjured witnesses, and in Georgia by means of a coalition with a few office-seekers, he has made an arrangement to revive the color line and array the blacks in solid phalanx against the whites. All this is to be traced to the New England idea that there is no such thing as

England public, which doesn't care whether

NEW PEDERAL COURTS.

supreme court is overworked. Its docket is so overloaded that three years are necessary to reach a case after it has been docketed, although it may have been pending two or three years before an appeal was taken to the supreme court. Such delay is in many nstances a denial of justice; and some of the best lawyers have long been considering meas ures to give the court of last resort relief. It is strange inded that some plan has not been before adopted; for the business of the country has grown steadily to immense propor tions, involving of course a great deal of difficult litigation, and yet the machinery of final adjudication stands where it did eighty

The bill before the senate for the creation of intermediate courts of appeal in the several circuits, is strongly indorsed by ex-Judge Davis, ex-Judge strong, and it is believed by the present members of the supreme court. Those who are most familiar with the business of the court do not favor a larger supreme court to be broken up into parts, but they prefer intermediate courts that will stop a portion of the cases that would otherwise be carried to the supreme court. The senate bill provides for the appointment of two additional judges in each of the nine circuits into which the country is at present divided. Then the three circuit judges, together with two of the district judges within the circuit, to be assigned for the purpose, and the justice of the supreme court allotted to the same would constitute the court of appeals for that circuit. To this tribunal appeals could be taken from the gircuit and district courts in cases in which the sum in controvery exdeeded $500 or any important question was a proposition is not worth the paper it is involved. This would materially extend the opportunity for a review of the decisions of single judges, as now in order to carry a case to the sapreme court the amount involved must be at least $5,000. It is also proposed to allow appeals in criminal cases where they cannot now be taken before any appellate tribunal. Resort to the supreme court by writ of error would still remain in cases where the amount in controversy exceeded $10,000, where any question of federal law was involved, or where the judges of the court of appeals certified that there was an important question which it was desirable to have that tribunal pass upon. It would also retain exclusive appellate jurisdiction in patent and copyright cases. Although the bill is chiefly designed to re lieve the supreme court, there are some other provisions of importance. Circuit court is established in every district where it does not now exist. When more than one judge com petent to hold it is present each may hold a separate session thereof. The existing law is thus conformed to that which has been en acted in many states where the court consists of several judges, each of whom is competent to hold it. The supreme court of the district of Columbia is thus constituted. In many of the larger cities such a provision is absolutely indispensible to enable the state courts to disrepresentative of the purpose and policy of pose of pending cases with the requisite disthe present administration. When we say of patch. There is no doubt that the a politician that he is a thief and a knave, it judges of some of the circuit courts is generally understood that the epithets have are overworked, and, notwithstanding their a political application merely. Upon this energetic devotion to duty, cases remain too idea New England republicanism has builded long on the dockets. Justice to litigants requires that there should be additional judicial force in the inferior courts, and this is accomther. To be sure it is a sin-nay, plished by this bill. Every circuit judge and district judge is empowered also to hold a but, according to the New district court in any district within their cirmoral code has taken possession of the entire jurors selected and summoned for the district court shall also be the panel for the circuit court, unless a special order be made by one of the judges of the court at least thirty days before the term. The bill involves, it is true, the appointment of eighteen additional circuit judges and, no doubt, the proposed new courts of appeal would add to the expenses of the govrement; but the increased expense is nothwhen the amount of the business to be handied is considered, or the cost of the present delay to litigants is taken into account. The pending bill is doubtless the best that can be devised to give the needed relief, and its passage should not be imperilled by any talk about increased expenses. A great country cannot afford to let the course of justice beome seriously obstructed in order to save a few thousands a year.

THE resolutions adopted by Jeff Long's conven ion in Macoa simply means that the unfortunat colored people are just as ready to allow a few white federal office holders to lead them around by the nose against their own best interests as the were in 1868. The fact is depressing.

He was the best and sharpest writer they had in the concern, and was one of their most efficient workers until he fully ascertained the situation and perceived the inevitable drift and final de-thation of the movement. We suppose that its indorsement by the negro convention at Macon was the last straw that broke the camel's back.

Mr. Stephens's Candidaey.

Manchester, N. H., Union. Alex. H. Stephens has so far reconsidered his de ermination to retire from public life as to say tha f his health continues good and the people of Georgia insist upon it, as they appear to do, he will consent to begin a condidate for governor. nt to become a candidate for governor. It extremely difficult for Mr. Stephens to establic life, but he is a much more interesting in the house or senate at Washington than h cape public life, but no is a mixed washington than no figure in the house or senate at Washington than no would be in Georgia acting as pardon clerk and signing notorial commissions.

Montezuma Weckly.

Sometime ago Mr. Stephens amounced his intention of retiring from putale life, but he now announces to a Constitution reporter that should his health continue so favorable, and the democracy of Georgia choose him for its leader, he would think it but his duty te abide by their wishes while he is not seeking office, if the office seek him, he can but accept. Mr. Stephens, although physically weak, is a man of gigantic ability. He is a power in Georgia potitics, and it would be our pleasure to see him nominated and elected to the storeme executive office of the state.

Fairburn News Letter.

We would be proud to see Mr. Stephens governo of Georgia. We be leve he would fill the office without to himself and the state, and we fully concur with the sentiment of the appropriateness allowing him to close his long career of public se vice with a term as chief executive of his nati-state. However, we are not so enthusiastic as to willing to sacrifice principle to accomplish this ea-If Mr. Stephens receives the nomination of to democratic party as their standard-bearer in t-gubernatorial contest, then we will give him of inqualified support; but should be determine to run as an independent or as the candidate of the coalition movement, we would rather see even him defeated than to be elected on either of these

Athens Banner-Watchman.

The Banner-Watchman will heartily support Mr. Stephens for a 'two fold reason: First, he is the man of the hour and his candidacy will carry with it vectory for the organized demo-racy of Georgia from the mountains to the seaboard. Second, we consider him as every way competent for this high office, and feel assured that he will make a chief magistrate that will redound to the honor of our great commonwealth. His nomination by the democratic convention we look upon as an assured fact. The party cannot afford to decline the s-crifice Mr. Stephens has made for them in retiring from a position to which he has a deed by the low and confidence of his enti-e constituency and entering into the heat of a bitter political contest.

Bellion North Georgian. Athens Banner-Watchman.

Notwithstanding the fact that Hon. Alexander b Stephens has, time and again, publicly announce that at the close of the present term of congress h would retire to private life, owing to boddly infirm ties, we notice that some of our exchanges arbringing him forward as a candidate for the guiler. orniging him to ward as a candidate for the guber natorial chair of the state. Now, in all candor, and with the utmost veneration for his statesmanship— his ability and past political record—we must be his ability and past political record—we must beg leave to enter our protest to any such action; and in so doing we but echo the verdict of our entire section. But, while we admire his services of the past, we do think that there are men in the rank and file of the party—active, c. pacitated meu—who would do honor to the chief magistracy four grand old commonwealth, without resorting to men who are totally incapacitated by bodily strength, and therefore physically unable to assume the position of commander in chief of the army and navy of the empire state of the south.

Thomasville Enterprise.

Hon. Alexander II. Stephens says that he will, if his heath continues se good as it is now, consent to run as the candidate of the democratic party for governor this year, provided they ask him so to do. Well, Mr. Stephens we believe will make as good a governor as anybody, and if he runs as the democratic hominee it will afford us great pleasure be support him. There are some things in Mr. Stephens we have never liked, and the state of the most strict has is one of the most strict he most if support him. There are some things in Mr. Stephens's past record that we have never liked, and never expect to, but he is one of the most strictly honest men we ever saw, and that is the most important feature to be secured in a governor at present. There is no great ability required to run the office, provided a man has that keen sense of honesty which will enable him to perceive at once any attempt to bleed the state treasury. Mr. Stephens is the right sort for the place.

New York, May 4.—Miss Minnie Ciapp, aged twenty-three, daughter of a wealthy broker of this city, alighted from a cab near the Eighty-sixth street crossing of the Hudson River railroad at Riverside drive to-day, and asked a workman when a train would peass. Being told that one would be due in half an hour she walked toward the river. As no station was n-ar the workman thought her question and actions suspicious, and followed her. On reaching the river she jumped in. After considerable difficulty he rescued her, and took her to the Ninety-ninth street hospital, where she recovered her senses. She refused to answer any questions, and her parents were notified. Her stepmother, with whom she had just returned from Europe, responded, and the two greeted each other formally in French, and went to their home on Fourteenth street, where reporters were dealed admittance. It was evidently the girl's intention at first to throw herself in front of a passing train. The cause of her act is supposed to be domestic troubles. A Young Lady Attempts Spield left no doubt in their minds of the correctness of their conclusion that death resulted from other sources than drowning. Another important phase covered by the medical testi-mony was that tending to establish the chas-tity of the girl up to within a comparatively short period before her death. This they agreed was conclusively established by the condition in which they found the organs, SERRING THE CAUSE OF DEATH.

Having thus disproved—to its own satisfaction at least—the assumption that Jennie ramer might have died of drowning, the trainer might have died of drowning, the state set out to show what she did die from. This, Professor Chittenden, of the Yale medical school, was brought forward to establish. In an examination occupying more than two balf days, he described how he had analyzed portions of all the internal organs of the girl's body, and also fifty-seven pounds of the body.

One of the lawyers for the defense has received a letter advancing the idea—which is not new, however—that all human bodies, or at least a good proportion of them, contain arsenic in greater or less quantities, it being communicated to them through its use in adulterating food, coloring wall paper and by a variety of other agencies. The writer proposed that the defense might gain valuable material by causing to be exhumed and analyzed a number of bodies for the purpose of throwing light on this matter. The suggestion will probably not be acted upon.

VISITING HOME.

The Malley boys paid a visit to the store and afterwards to the house of Edward Malley, Friday afternoon, before returning to the jail. They went all through the house, viewing with interest the different rooms. Once when Walter was in the front parlor and James in the back parlor, the sheriff reminded them that they must keep together.

EXPERT TESTIMONY ON ARRENIC.

NEW HAYEN, May 4.—T.—day's proceedings in the Malley-Douglass murder trial were in the nature of an inquisition into the exactness of the methods of Professor Chittenden, who chemically examined Jennie Cramer's remains. Chittenden was on the stand all day. The greater portion of the time he was subjected to the cross-examination of Mr. Case, who stood with folded arms directly in front of the witness. The answers were garded and careful. State Autorney Doolittle characterized the questions as an attempt to make the scientific testimony appear rediculous. Mr. Case sharply retorted, as an the previous day, that Professor Chittenden's testimony sounded much like a dhemical lecture. Technicalities reached their dimax when Mr. Case requested the witness to bring a millegram of arsenic into the court mon that the jurors might see the basis of his falculations, "When such little things make by a case for murder," Mr. Doolittle objection of the court would like to see them." Mr. Doolittle objection of the court would like to see them." Mr. Doolittle objection of the court would like to see them ted, but the vitness promised to bring the millegram. This he has weighed, and although it is an infinitesimal quantity, it is visible without a microscope. The testimony took a wide range. Its dullness was enlivened by the appearance in court of a female crank, who claimed to have heard voices in the air two days before Jennie Cramer's death, which warned her of the tragedy. There were a score of other cracked-brained women in the room. THE CASE SUMMED UP.

e Progress Made by the State Thus Far-The Points Proved and the Points Yet to be Estab. hished—The Analysis of the Youthful Ex-pert Resisting Any Attack. Profesior Chittenden said that in the fame Tuesday last brought on the third week of Norwich case of Mrs. Riddle he pursued the same methods as in the Jennie Cramer case. As to his conclusions as to how Jennie took arsenic, he said that they were based on experiments on dors and early to some extensions. the Malley trial-third as regards the time the court has been in session upon the case, but only the second as regards the introducbut only the second as regards the introduc-tion of testimany. During the four days of This was the first case in which he had eve last week devoted to the evidence, a fair beexamined a human body in which he thought arsenic had entered in a soluble form. There had been an unequal distribution of the drug in the girl's remains. There had been no ginning was made by the state in the presentation against the accused of the case, which state Attorney Doolittle outlined in his epening address to the jury. So far he has attempted to show that Jennie Cramer did not come to her death by drowning and that she did die from arsenic. The motive of the administration of the arsenic by the prisoners—one or more of them—and their opportunity for its administration are matters yet to be treated of. How tion are matters yet to be treated of. How near the time of the finding of the body of the victim he can show that she and the your calculation is erroneous, because it calculates on arsenic in more than an entire liver.

The witness, however, admitted that different weighings of portions of the remains furof the victim he can show that she and the prisoners were in company is a subject of great importance in the case, but as yet no testimony upon this point has been presented except that of the witness Hauser, and his evidence does not bring the parties together as late by more than twenty-four hours as he state will try to show that the it. The calculation on the arsenic in the heart was based on the part examined. The proportions of the breast examined the wit ness did not know. If this was guess work, however, as Mr. Case implied, the witness thought it was guess work on a reasonable foundation. three prisoners and the dead girl were together at the West Haven shore.

WHAT THE EVIDENCE HAS ESTABLISHED.

During the four days occupied in the hear-

Mr. Doolittle objected to the character of the examination, but Mr. Case continued for hours, going into the ghastly details of the exhumation Chittenden said that in a little house hear the grave in the Evergreen cemetery he told Undertaker Stahl to bring the scales to weight the body. The coffin was placed on the floor and the scales stood at the other end of the room. Before the body was taken from the coffin it was weighed. When the body was opened it was found to be stuffed with cotton. Then there was a second weighing after the cotton had been removed. Mr. Case evidently considered the cotton of some importance and asked whether it was wet or cotton had been removed.

It was wet or dry when found. The witness could not say how wet or dry it was, but he thought it was moist. It looked moist and was tinged with yellow. Whether arsenic could have been flutroduced into the remains through the cotton was not asked. The witness was asked ton was not asked. Then Mr. Case began inquiring whether Jennie Cramer was an habitual arsenic eater.

from superficial indications, while the opinion of Dr. Prudden and the other physicians was based largely upon confirmatory evidences disclosed by the autopsy. Summed up, their evidences was that, while signs of drowning are variable and any of the usual indications alone is not to be accepted as conclusive, the combination existing in Jennie Cramer's case, but no dupt in the minute of the acceptance and the combination existing in Jennie Cramer's case, but no dupt in the minute of the acceptance are superfixed. right thigh bone do you draw the deduction that there was no arsenic in the bones of that body?" he asked.

THE LEADING EXPERTS.

Professor Chittenden is probably the youngest expert who ever figured in so important a case in such an important role. Although only 26 years old, he graduated from the Sheffield scientific school in 1875, subsequently studied chemistry and physiology for two years in Germany, and was afterwards chosen to a professorship in the scientific department of Yale college, which he now occupies. The professor is under the average size, but has a compact and well proportioned frame. He has very black eyes, black hair and chin whiskers, full face, fair complexion and much gravity and immobility of countenance. He is perfectly self-possessed in manner and quite imperturbable under the interruptions of counsel. Some questions and remarks of a rather sarcastic nature made by Mr. Case in the cross examination did not affect him in the least. He simply waited until the interruption was over and then resumed his answers with his usual deliberation and precise exactness of speech and manner. To what extent he will be refuted by the experts who will be put upon the stand against him by the defense remains to an undue proportion of bone when it con-tains no arsenic whatever?"
"It is, when done for the purpose I did it." THE BRAINS NOT EXAMINED. The witness admitted that when the body The witness admitted that when the body was weighed in the cemetery he did not re move the head to see if there remained two-thirds of the brain, and did not examine the cavity to see if the heart was there. State Attorney Doolittle led the witness to a series of explanations. "I analyzed the entire arm bone. Then I took the leg bone and analyzed that I will be the production of the prod ed that. I understand from Dr. Prudde that the brain had been removed, and so I did not look in the skull for it. I have not did not look in the skull for it. I have not recognized any error in any analysis I have made. I know very well that I examined one small ventricle of the heart. In regara to the liver, it was a trifle over one pound and a half. The average weight of a human liver is calculated at from three to five pounds. I took the lowest weight for the basis of my calculation. I experimented purposely to see the different action of soluble and insoluble argents.

TESTS WITH TWO COACH DOGS. "I took two coach dogs. To one I gave one hundred grains and a half of the white oxide of arsenic, the most insoluble form. I gave it under favorable circumstances and over a period of seven days. Then I took the other dog and treated it with six one-half grains of dog and treated it with six one-half grains of.
Fowler's solution. In fifteen or twenty minutes it vomited up nearly all of the fluid I had given it. The next morning I gave it eleven grains of arsenic acid, and in twenty minutes it vomited up the greater part of that. After twenty-four hours the dog was kilked and the brain removed and analyzed.
The other dog laying the one hundred and was killed and the brain removed and analyzed. The other dog, having the one hundred and one-half grains of the more insoluble arsenic, was also killed at the expiration of the seven days, and both brains carefully analyzed. The dog having the smaller quantity of arsenic, but in a soluble, diffusible form, contained twice as much arsenic as the dog that had received one hundred and one half grains. This corroborates Ludwig and the Russian scientist. That is, the twenty-four-hour's dog had more arsenic in his brain that the seven-days dog. The experiment has been made a number of times in my labratory, and always with the same result."

ber of times in my labratory, and always with the same result."
The witness exhibited soluble and insoluble arsenic in phials, and said that while he could not give to-day the exact amount of arsenic found in the body and weighed, a portion of the arm, a portion of the leg and a portion of the transverse section were the only parts of Jennie Cramer that he did not fully analyze.

Mr. Prudden was recalled and testified that there was no stuffing in the body except cotton, and basing his opinion upon the results of the autopsy and what Professor Chittenden had found, he thought that Jannie Cramer died from arsenical poisoning. The wide distribution of the drug through the remains was one strong point in his belief. On crossexamination he said that in fatal arsenical poisoning the lining of the stomach would not necessarily be inflamed, though he had never seen a case where there was not inwhen Mr. Case requested the winess to bring a millegram of arsenic into the court mom that the jurors might see the basis of his alculations. "When such little things make the assigned arsenical poisoning as the cause of a case for murder," said Mr. Case, "we would like to see them." "Oatland is near Augusta," replied the commissioner. "At the last agricultural convention a resolution was passed requesting me to appoint a committee to examine and report on some of the agricultural implements exhibited at the last cotton exposition. Colonel Newman and I went down to Augusta in ac-cordance with the resolution to see the imple-ments and machines in practical opera-tion, and the result of eur intion, and the result of our investigations will be published in the regular monthly report of the department, which will be issued new in a few days. We saw and examined a number of machines, pulverizers, seed drills and cultivators. Our report is already written out. The trial of the machines took place on the farm of Colonel Capers, which is inside the corporate limits of Augusta. While we were there we exent out to look at several large farms, notably the Eve plantation, which is controlled by Mr. J. B. Campbell. On this plantation there are 500 acr.s in oats in one field, and sixty in wheat. One hundred and twenty acres will be planted in corn. In the judgment of men who are well informed on the subject, nen who are well informed on the this place will produce from fifty to sixty bushels of oats to the acre. It is certainly a fine place. The wheat will make from twennne place. The wheat will make from twenty to twenty-five bushels per acre. There is no evidence of disease of any sort with the crops, nor did I hear any complaint of rust during our stay in Richmond county. We were in sight of but did not visit a number of other crops, all of which were very fine, but none of them in my judgment were equal to the wheat and out crops, on the Free sleater. the wheat and oat crops on the Eve "How is the soil?"

"Is the plantation level?"

"The ground is as level as a billiard table, and nothing but improved machinery is used in the harvesting of the hay. Improved machinery is very generally used about Augusta, and this fact I regard as one of the strongest evidences of the prosperity of the people. They all seem to have good agricultural machinery and are apparently in a prosperous condition, with fine prospects of good crops,"

The Colored Churches—The Work of the Bishops—Bishop Pulne's Kemarks.

NASHVILLE, May 4.—The general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, south, held its second session to-day, but no business of special note was transacted, the work of organization being still in progress.

THE BISHOPS' ADDRESS.

In the address of the bishops, among other subjects discussed, the following is said of the church work among the colored people:

church work among the colored people:

"The negro population of the south and southwest, upon which our church, in time past, bestowed much labor, but which for several years has been turned against us, is several years has been turned against us, is again becoming accessible to our influence. Opportunities to preach to their congregations should be diffigently improved. The colored Methodist Episcopal church in America, organized by us a decade ago at the request of the remnant of our colored membership, has maintained its integrity, and made some progress. They are in great productions some progress. They are in great need of fa-cilities for providing themselves with suitable pastors and teachers of their own race.

Whatever assistance they can render them in whatever assistance they can render them in this respect especially, will be well be-stowed; and we invite to this subject your fa-vorable consideration. General legislation is limited in quantity, as the great body of the minority and membership are in each thorough accord, that nothing more is needed save constant recourse to spiritual aids."

"Not statute law, but life, and life more abundantly is the want of our deep. "Not statute law, but life, and life more abundantly, is the want of our day. A low spiritual experience is the greatest danger of Methodism. Whatever you can do to promote personal, family, and social religion, will prove our best defense against the enemies that war against the soul. Let our existing laws be judiciously and faithfully administered, and it will be found that persons who live in violation of their baptismal covenant cannot live within the church."

mant cannot live within the church."

BISHOP PAINE'S APPEAL FOR REST.

After the reading of the address, Bishop Paine arose and asked to be permitted to retire from active labor, owing to his infirmaties and advancing years. "For sixty-five years." he said, "I have had the honor of being an itinerant Methodist preacher, and for thirty-six years a bishop. In the general conference of 1824 I was a delegate, and, as bishop or delegate, have attended ever session since then. For the confidence in my reliability, indicated by these facts, I wish to now return my most earnest gratitude to my much respected colleagues in the Episcopacy, between whom and myself the utmost cordial feelings have been unvaryingly maintained. I tender my thanks. They have generously supplied my lack of service by doing double duty. * * * I do most devoutly thank God that in early life I became a Methodist itinerant preacher, and have connued such. But above all, I rejoice in the re gion 8 experience which Methodism prosents as the privilege of its members, joy unspeakable and full of glory."

"The general conference is doomed to basements." remarked a lay delegate, yesterday. "At Atlanta four years ago," he said, "we held our meetings in the basement of the church, and in Nashville we are sent there."

THE COTTON MARKET

New York—The cotton market opened a fraction higher this morning, and during the forenoon noved upwards under a steady tone. About noon the tone became very dull and futures ruled quie and inactive. During the remainder of the day influence of a depressed feeling the months showed a disposition to move off. The closing quotations, while a fraction higher than yesterday, are barely sustained, and lower seem inevitable for to-morrow. The spot market remains as yet unchanged; midday, May 9, 1882, at 3 o'clock sharp, 21 vacant lots which lie beautifully on that high hill, bounded by Fort, Harris and Hılliard streets, only one block west of Jackson street car line. These 1 1/18 command a fine view of the city, are very handsome and desirable, and in a choice neighborhood. Vacant property is much sought after, and but little is on the market which is so desirable as this. The lots are staked off, and can easily be found. Plats can be had at my office.

Terms—one-half cash and the remainder in 12 months, with 8 per cent interest. Call for a plat, go out and examine the property and attend the sale.

Mr. Mat Ryan's many friends in and out of Atlanta's commercial circles will be pained to know that he was yesterday forced to make an assignment, the assignees being Messrs. Hicker and Coffee. The total amount of Mr. Ryan's indebtedness is about $11,000, while his available assets are about $11,000. Nearly $6,000 of his obligations are secured by mortgages. No cause has been assigned for this step, but Mr. Ryan's well known honesty and fair dealing leaves no shadow upon his acts. fair dealing leaves no shadow upon his acts.
It is to be hoped that he will soon be able to extricate himself from his embarrassment which, those who are conversant with the facts, say is only a temporary one.

BLACK BOURBONS.

COLONEL FARROW TALKS ABOUT

And Also About Smith Clayton, Governor Colq zander H. Stephens, "Africanizing Georgian Lander H. Stephens, "Africanizing Georgian Lander Count Elections, and Other Things.

EDITORS CONSTITUTION: It seems from Mr. Clayton's interview in this morning's paper that he would prefer for your reporter to interview me more in detail and I am cer-tainly willing to answer questions propounded by your polite and courteous reporter. Yet, if the reporter doesn't ask questions how can I answer them? I exhibited to the reporter the letter itself, signed by Mr. Clayton, and told him it was not in Mr. Clayton's handwriting but that the signature was his If the reporter had deemed it important he could have ascertained that Mr. Clayton submitted his proposition verbally and I called for it in writing and he asked me to do the writing and I did it and he signed it. It was his proposition, it was his letter and it meant business. And I was favorable to putting him to work on the bourbons in some legitimate way. What Mr. Clayton doesn't know about way. What Mr. Clayton doesn t know accept the history of elections in Fulton county for fifteen years past is not worth knowing. I have some knowledge of these things myself, his reculiar fitness for the work and I know his peculiar fitness for the work of showing up these election frauds, this bal-lot-box stuffing, etc., whether done in day-time or at night—and I could imagine myself looking on at a bear light between him and his bourbon friends over the true inward-ness of some of their little occurrences. It was not his "time and energies" I was after, but it was his knowledge of men and measures I wanted. Others didn't appreciate him so highly as I did and we lost him. In fact, it would come very awkward at first for me to run a demfirst for me to run a dem-ocratic newspaper, and nothing but my high appreciation of Mr. Clayton and his scheme for showing up bourbon methods and prac-tices caused me to look at all favorably on ton's usefulness, were not willing to invest the thirty dollars per week, and the result is before the country and I am now twitted with the remark, "Didn't we tell you so?" All fooling aside, it is remarkable that Georgia is to be "Africanized," "negroized" by the appointment of a few independent demo-crats to federal offices and by the election of a democrat as governor. The cry has hereto-fore been that no southern man, no demo-crat, however liberal and just, had any in-heritance under the national government.

Now, no questions are asked as to how a man stood five, ten or twenty years ago, but the only question is how does he stand now? Is he willing for all men to enjoy their legal and political rights? Is he willing for every citizen, however humble, whether white or black, to yote and is he willing for the yote to be counted? Is he willing for the vote to be counted? Is he willing for other people to differ with him on political questions, and is he free from that intolerant and proscriptive spirit which seeks to drive a man out of business and out of the country, simply because. country simply because he is a republican? And occause of this liberal and wise policy of the friends of the present national adminis-tration the cry suddenly changes and we are charged with trying to seduce the democracy, with trying to "Africanize" our state. There are white bourbons and there are black bourbons and they are working together like a yoke of oxen, who seem to be pulling to get away from each other, but are really pulling the cart forward. The masses of the people, white and black, are tired of all this and are looking to the support of good men who will put an end to it. This is illustrated to-day in Georgia by the universal wish of the people for Mr. Stephens to be made governor. We see our chief magistrate going all the way to Washington to urge him to run for governor. We see independents and republicans walk right up behind Governor Colquitt and say "we too." And yet we see white bourbons so foolish as to say we won't support Mr. Stephens unless he will abuse some one we dislike. And we may find some black bourbons who will refuse to support him because he doesn't abuse some one to suit them. The day for abuse has ended. It will not "Africanize" Georgia for us all day for abuse has ended.

Africanize Georgia for us all to unite with Governor Colquitt in making to unite with Governor of the state. Mr. Stephens governor of the state. The de mocracy know that Mr. Stephens is a good man, and none but bourbons will turn their backs on him, because all the people love to honor him. Republicans know he is a great man, and will support him without seeking man, and will support film without seeking to appropriate him. No one political party can appropriate Alexander H. Stephens any more than it can appropriate the "old flag." We all now march under the one flag, and we can ail vote for Mr. Stephens without wrangling over the question of who first asked him to run. Governor Colquitt is really entitled to the credit of insururating the entitled to the credit of inaugurating the entitied to the credit of inaugurating the movement, as indeed he is for many good things; but I will not turn boarbon and oppose Mr. Stephens because Governor Colquitt has that honor. I have digressed a little from Smith Clayton, but not from his idea of "Africanizing" Georgia, and I have done so to show that I have no fears of Governor Colquitt "Africanizing" our state. Very respectfully, HENRY P. FARROW.

A CORNER IN GOURDS.

A Debilitated Industry to be Revised by an Atlanta Syndicate. There can be no doubt of the fact that an effort is being made in Atlanta to get up a corner in gourds. The gentlemen who have formed a coalition with such an end in view are making an effort to keep the matter quiet, are making an effort to keep the matter quiet, but, through accident, a Constitution reporter yesterday became acquainted with a general outline of the proposed scheme for managing the corner. It is well known that the important industry of gourd raising has been well-nigh abandoned in Georgia and throughout the south, while the demand has of late been greatly stimulated. It has been pretty well settled that the late respected cotton exposition had much to do with creating this new demand for gourds, and it is hinted that the bonanza which lies in a corner was first discovered by which lies in a corner was first discovered by a prominent member of the goard committee of the late exposition. It is said that almost fabulous sums were offered by northern visitors for the few specimens that were on exhibition, although the gourds were of no unusual size. The largest gourd, probably, in Georgia, if not in the south, is owned by an Georgia, if not in the south, is owned by an Atlanta gentleman, the Rev. Mr. Crumley. It was grown in the year in which he was born, and is therefore quite an ancient gourd. It holds a bushel and a half and a quart, and if it had been exhibited at the exposition would have been a big advertisement for the south, and might have been sold with great benefit to its owner. It is proper to say, however, that Mr. Crumley has nothing to do with the proposed corner in gourds.

"When will it be out?"

"I have no idea. They are at work on it, and I suppose that it will be issued after a while. The state will not have enough when it does come out."

"Because the legislature subscribed for only 3,000 copies, when it will take nearly 3,300 to supply the requirements, aside from the exchanges that we always send us copies of the revised statutes."

one offered that entire block in which the opera house is for $6,000. At the same time I could have bought the one directly across Mariettaristeret for $6,500. About that time I gave $5,000 for the ground where the capital six, and afterwards sold it for $10,000. But immes have changed."

Less a Leg.

Yesterday morning Dr. Armstrong, assisted by Drs. Martin and Collier, amputated Chas. Macbeth's left leg just below the knee. The injury which necessitated the amputation was sustained by Macbeth night before last. He was running on the Air Line road, and when near Norcross fell between two cars while the train was in motion. The physi-cians think he will recover, although his system is very much demoralized by the in-juries received. Macbeth is a colored man.

Sudden Death, Yesterday afternoon Coroner Hillburn held an inquest over the body of Lucy Kitchen, an old colored woman who was found dead in her bed yesterday morning at her home on Willow street. The evidence adduced shower that the old woman was in excellent health day before yesterday, and retired that night feeling well. When the family awoke yes terday morning her death, which occurred some time during the night, was ascertained. The verdict was death from heart disease.

THE SMALL POX.

There were no new cases of small-pox developed yesterday, and even rumors were not so recklessly circulated as they were on the previous day. The sanitary inspectors and Dr. Martin investigated a number of reported cases but none of them turned out to be small-pox. There were two deaths at the hospital yesday. Mrs. Dyer died during the afternoon, and during the day John Pew, a negro man, died. The other patients at the hospital were reported as doing well. Mr. Guess, on Fair street, was reported yes-terday as being in a very critical condition.

THE AUCTION BUSINESS.

ome Secrets of That Branch of Trade Discussed—Tw "Talk of making money," said a Marietta street auctioneer in the presence of a Constirution representative yesterday, "I hit a big thing yesterday." "What was it?" asked one of his hearers.

"What was it? asked one of its hearers.
"Why, I bought a young alligator for fifty cents and sold it to a Cincinnati man for two hundred dollars. He never saw one before, and was mashed at a glance. He is going to take it home and feed it on young pigs and "Well, that was a good make," remarked "Well, that was a good make," remarked one of the company as the youthful cryer of "going, going—gone," closed his narrative. "Yes, but I sold a piano the other morning for a dollar and a half" broke out afresh the orator. "This I tell you to show you the extremes of trade. You see it was an old in trument, the first one that was ever brought to this state. It was beautifully finished and was the most elaborately carved thing I ever perfect workmanship, makes it a novelty. I wish I had bought it myself." The New Code. "You may say," remarked Mr. Frank L. Haralson, state librarian, yesterday, "that the new code is not out yet."

"When will it be out?"
